Capt. Edward Simmers, Andrew Summerville, and R. W. French, of the coal and iron police, who are doing duty at the Mahanoy City colliery, left that operation on a tour of inspection about the company's property. They passed a crowd of strikers. Someone yelled 'scab," and shortly afterward a load of birdshot was fired at the police from a clump of bushes about a hundred yards

The shot struck the officers and they made a break for the bushes, where they found Peter Perush and James Masel lying upon the grass in company with four boys. The officers searched the men and found a revolver upon the latter, but they could not locate a gun. They arrested the two men, but allowed the boys to go their way.

The officers took the men to the rail-

It was feared for a time that the affair would be a repetition of the Shender andown riot, but several of the bystandandoah riot, but several of the bystanders who could speak Polish pacified the crowd.
